STRIKE CLOSES COTTON MART

N. Y. Exchange Shuts Up Until Further Notice as Walk-out Begins.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 4 — The New York cotton exchange closed until further notice today as the result of a strike—the first time any major exchange here has been closed by labor troubles.

The exchange board of managers went into immediate session following the walk-out by members of United Financial Employes Local 205 (AFL). The New York exchange does the largest volume of business of any cotton exchange in the world.

There was no trading in wool futures and wool tops as a result of the cotton exchange shutdown. The strike did not affect the New York stock or curb exchanges which have contracts with the union.

The strike was called, the union said, after a breakdown of negotiations over wages last night. A pay increase of 30 per cent is sought, the union said.

Officials of the exchange said, however, that a closed shop was one of the principal issues involved. Another, the officials said, was a union demand for a 20-day cancellation clause under which the New York exchange would be forced to refuse to handle business of any member firm involved in a strike.

About 800 members of the Seafarers' International Union (AFL) joined the exchange employes in a picket line outside the 23-story building which houses the exchange on its 19th floor.

Service employes of the building — members of Local 32B, Building Service Employes International Union (AFL)—declined to cross the picket line. As a result, elevator service was curtailed in the building. No firemen, engineers or other building maintenance employes were on the job.

MARION CO. YOUTHS PASS NAVAL TESTS

Two Chosen To Enter Reserve Officer Training.

Richard Bigley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bigley of 155 McWilliams court, and Eugene Fredericks, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Fredericks of the Hillman-Ford road, received notice yesterday that they had passed the Navy college aptitude test and had been chosen to enter the Naval Reserve Officers training camp, subject to passing physcial examinations.

The Navy college aptitude tests were administered at Harding High schol Jan. 18 to 27 to senior boys from Marion and surrounding counties. Six youths from Harding High school took the test.

Entry into the Naval Reserve Officers training corps will enable the youths to attend one of 52 NROTC colleges for four years, with tuition, books and fees to be paid by the Navy. They will be provided with a living allowance of $600 a year during the time they are in college. They will take one required course in Naval science each year plus two summer cruises and one summer course in aviation indoctrination. On graduation they will be commissioned as officers in the Navy and will serve two years on active duty. Then they may continue as career officers or may transfer to reserve officer status.

They will report March 18 to the Naval Officer Procurement office in Detroit for physical examinations.

Board of Education To Meet with Staff Which Quit in Huff

(Picture on Page 7)

By The Associated Press

LORAIN, O., March 4 — Board of education officials at nearby Clearview scheduled a meeting today with their entire staff of 31 teachers, who resigned yesterday in a dispute with students in Clearview schools.

A five-hour meeting with board officials last night failed to convince the teachers that they should return to their jobs "until discipline has been restored," a spokesman for the instructors declared.

Supt. T. C. Simpson submitted resignations of the entire faculty yesterday during a "peace" assembly, which was interrupted by rebellious boos and catcalls from students.

"The teachers can't take any more," asserted Simpson, adding, "the parents, not only the students, have crucified the teachers, and we can take only so much."

Stalin Quits Army Position

Resigns as Head of Armed Forces, Pleading Press of Other Duties.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 4 — Prime Minister Stalin has stepped out as minister of Soviet armed forces because of the "excessive pressure of his main work," the Moscow radio says, and has handed the job to Gen. Nikolai A. Bulganin, regarded as one of Russia's most skilled administrators.

Unofficial Russian sources in London said they saw no reason to suppose that last night's announcement of the change meant anything but what it said—that the pressure of other work forced Stalin to lay aside the job of running the armed forces, now in the midst of de-emphasis and demobilization.

It was the second such change in the Moscow government within a week. Col. Gen. Andrei A. Zhdanov was relieved of his post as chairman of the council of the union of the supreme soviet at his own request last Tuesday because of the "pressure of work connected with his main duties." The council of the union is the smaller of the two houses of Russia's parliament.

Stalin continues as prime minister, as head of the powerful politburo and of the orgburo—supervising organization of the Communist party, as general secretary of the party and as a member of the presidium of the supreme soviet—an executive and directive body of the parliament.

Stalin, who is 67 years old, had held the post for six years—all through the war—and has repeatedly been reported ill since the end of hostilities. Moscow observers, however, have described him in normal good health for a man of his age.

Bulganin has been the chief vice minister in the ministry of armed forces since March 22, 1946. He was head of the Moscow city soviet during the war and was a member of the city's military council when the Germans were repelled almost at the capital's gates in 1941. He was made a lieutenant general in the army the following year.

2-Day Ohio Traffic Toll Climbs to 16

By The Associated Press

A death toll of at least 16 persons was counted today from traffic accidents in Ohio Sunday and Monday, including 10 killed in railroad grade crossing crashes.

Ohio's second grade crossing tragedy in two days occurred Monday when a Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad freight train smashed into an automobile five miles north of Elyria, O. Four employes of the National Tube Co. of Lorain were killed.

COFALL CLEARS GAMING STAND

Tells Inquiry Liquor Department Will Handle Gambling with More Employes.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—Stanley B. Cofall, state liquor director, says his department will be able to "take care of the gambling situation" as soon as more inspectors can be employed.

He said today that in telling a senate investigating committee last week that elimination of the liquor board's regulation prohibiting gambling in drinking spots would ease the department's burden, he meant to apply the statement only to the present.

"With 130 inspectors we can't enforce all the gambling laws of Ohio," Cofall said. "But just as soon as we get more we're going to take care of gambling everywhere it affects us—that is, on the premises of permit holders."

He said he expected additional inspectors would be available from a list to be prepared by the state civil service commission within 30 days.

Number Uncertain

The number of additional inspectors to be employed, Cofall added, would depend on conditions.

"Right now we have no specific complaints," he declared.

Cofall declined comment yesterday on editorials in several Sunday newspapers suggesting that Gov. Thomas J. Herbert discharge him and William J. Kelch, of Cleveland, his enforcement chief.

Kelch declared:

"I'm a law enforcement officer and I'm honest and I never quit under fire."

Herbert Declines Comment

Gov. Herbert also declined comment on the editorial suggestions but he did criticize one writer's interpretation of Cofall's testimony before the senate committee. The editorial said Cofall advocated "dropping all responsibility for enforcement of the anti-gambling regulations of the state liquor board and shifting it to local police.

"I do not construe Cofall's position to mean the department should disregard gambling," the governor declared. "Our job is to suppress permits where gambling is tolerated—we are not to enforce the gambling laws.

"We are to enforce the operations of liquor permits without gambling, and it is the local enforcement officers' function to prosecute for gambling while the department cities for revocation or suspension of permits."

BRITAIN AND FRANCE SIGN ALLIANCE PACT

By The Associated Press

DUNKERQUE, France, March 4 — Great Britain and France signed today a 50-year alliance designed to provide mutual protection against any future aggression by Germany.

The agreement was signed by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain, enroute to the four-power foreign ministers meeting in Moscow, and by Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of France, who planned to leave tomorrow to join him and the American and Russian representatives there.

The pact covered the transfer of a huge amount of military and naval material sold or loaned to France by Britain since France's liberation.

Similar accords are proposed with Holland, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Poland to ring Germany with a new entente.

In some quarters the alliance of Dunkerque was hailed as a precursor of a treaty of Moscow in which the Big Four would bind themselves for 40 to 50 years against any resurgence of German might or war potential such as plagued the world twice in 30 years.

SCHOOL GROUP IN CAPITAL TO PRESS FOR AID

Delegation of County Teachers and Board Members Goes to Columbus.

A delegation of 25 Marion county teachers and school board members today was attending public hearings of the Ohio senate educational committee in Columbus to urge passage of legislation for additional state funds for schools.

Decision to send a representative delegation to Columbus rather than to stage a full-scale march on the capital was reached at a meeting of teachers yesterday at 4:30 p. m. in the common pleas courtroom. The discussion was led by Melvin Bernow, president of the Marion County Teachers association. Opinion of the teachers was that a representative group sent to Columbus would be more effective than a full-scale march, which they voted to postpone indefinitely.

Fact-Finding Group

The delegation will act as a fact-finding committee for other members of the county teachers association, and teachers expressed the hope that they may have committee representation at all future legislative meetings in the state capital where school funds were discussed.

Besides attending the senate hearing today, the county group plans to check with the Ohio Education association to learn what action it has taken in regard to school legislation.

According to The Associated Press today, a march of Ohio school teachers on the capital to press for salary increases, proposed in anonymous letters to the teachers last week, failed to materialize yesterday. Two delegations, however, appeared to inquire into the possibilities of speeding state action for higher pay for teachers. They were from Adams county and Salem township, Champaigne county.

Teachers in Delegation

Today's Marion county delegation included at least one teacher and one school board member from all of the county schools. Teacher representatives were A. B. Augenstein of Claridon, Don C. Burton of LaRue, C. D. Pilkington of Meeker, Harry Alexander of New Bloomington, Dale S. Porter of Martel, Edward Howell of Caledonia, Robert McFarland of Morral, Robert Thomas of Pleasant, Arch Cochran of Prospect, O. L. Ulry of Green Camp, Norman Fogt of Kirkpatrick, Harvey Brucker of Grand Prairie and Frank Furniss of Waldo.

Judge Reprimands Parents in Court

Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast today reprimanded the parents of two 15-year-old Marion boys when they appeared with the boys in juvenile court today. The boys were arrested Sunday at 11 a. m. on charges of auto larceny after they were stopped from escaping by a warning shot from a policeman.

Judge Gast placed the blame for the auto theft incident upon the parents for permitting the boys too much freedom. Testimony in the hearing brought out the fact that the parents of one of the boys was out of town over the weekend and did not learn of the incident until they returned home and found their son in the county detention home.

The boys admitted taking four automobiles. One stated they took the cars because they wanted to drive, and the other gave no reason for the thefts when questioned by the judge.

The boys were spotted by police in a squad car Sunday while riding in a car reported stolen from Charles Eliker of Gurley avenue. They were stopped after they jumped from the car and started to run.

They were returned to the detention home after their hearing this morning was continued until further information on the car thefts could be obtained.

By The Associated Press

DELAWARE, O., March 4—U.S. Engineer Arthur Johnson today estimated a loss of $15,000 from a fire which destroyed the field office of the Delaware conservation dam project east of here yesterday. George C. Gorrell, watchman, suffered severe burns in escaping from the building.

School Subsidy Bill Heads Into Its First Concerted Opposition

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—The Daniels-Cramer school subsidy bill headed today into its first concerted opposition at a senate education committee hearing.

Arch D. Schultz of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce said he and some others wanted to know how the state could grant the appropriation increases asked in the bill and still have anything left to meet other requests.

Other questions included whether omission of the word "public" in reference to schools and school districts in the measure would allow private and other schools to share in foundation funds.

Another was whether a proposed one-mill tax increase would cover increased grants, including state purchase of school buses estimated to cost nearly $5,000,000 a year at the start.

Also questioned was how few low-paid teachers actually would be eligible for $2,000-a-year minimum salaries proposed for teachers holding at least a bachelor degree and a four-year provisional certificate.

Increases School Grants

The measure would increase state grants to schools from $59,000,000 a year to an estimated $100,000,000. Gov. Thomas J. Herbert has expressed doubt that the boost would leave money for much else.

Numerous legislators said they have received more mail in support of the Daniels-Cramer bill than any other measure. A committee hearing last week failed to produce any opponents.

Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins took under consideration today a request for an opinion on immunity of witnesses testifying before the senate liquor investigating committee.

The senate by a voice vote last night requested the opinion on a resolution by Sen. Roscoe R. Walcutt (R-Franklin), chairman of the five-member committee conducting the sweeping investigation.

Poses Immunity Question

Walcutt said he wanted to know whether persons subject to prosecution in a separate liquor investigation by the attorney general would get immunity if called for testimony by the senators.

Statute provides that the testimony before legislative probers can not be used as evidence against those witnesses. Walcutt indicated he might seek prosecution of some witnesses by asking whether they could waive immunity.

Altrough no date has been set for resumption of the senate committee's investigation, Walcutt intimated it might be Thursday. Jenkins has been looking into the flood of private liquor licenses issued in closing days of the Lausche administration.

The state's 90-year-old law banning sale of liquor within two miles of state or county agricultural fairs was attacked and defended at the regular senate liquor committee's hearing last night.

Sen. George G. Shurtz (R-Coshocton), a committee member, said he was opposed to a proposal which would allow such sales. He also urged approval of another bill to allow cities to set early closing hours for liquor spots, require Saturday midnight closings and forbid sale of a 3.2 beer on Sundays.

Sen. Nicholas P. Bernard (D-Mahoning), another committee member, and committee Chairman Raymond E. Hildebrand (R-Lucas) expressed opposition to changing state regulation of bar closings.

Calling for adoption of the proposal to exempt liquor license holders from the ancient anti-liquor zoning law were Norman C. Parr and Isadore Topper of the Buckeye Retail Liquor Dealers association and Cap. H. Mowrey of the Ohio Hotels association.

Hildebrand said further hearings would be conducted but set no date.

The senate unanimously adopted a resolution by Sen. D. A. Liggitt (R-Logan) asking voters to approve a change in the state constitution permitting the general assembly to designate a way to fill vacancies in the legislature.

G.O.P. PITCHED BATTLE STARTS

House and Senate Republicans Draw Lines in Budget Cut Fight.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4 — The house refused today to accept the senate's $4,500,000,000 budget slash limit.

On motion of Chairman Taber (R-NY) of the appropriations committee the house—insisting on a $6,000,000,000 budget trimming—decided to send the issue to a joint conference committee.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4 — House Republicans waded into a pitched battle with the senate on fiscal issues today with Speaker Martin commanding "no retreat" on either a $6,000,000,000 budget slash or a 20 per cent cut in income taxes.

Backed by his G.O.P. steering committee, Martin issued a statement declaring President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget can be trimmed to $31,500,000,000 "without endangering national defense or security or sacrificing other essential services of government."

Moreover, the Massachusetts lawmaker asserted, "we house Republicans are determined to give the people a 20 per cent reduction in taxes." This would slice about $3,500,000,000 off federal revenues.

Martin's statement was challenged immediately by Chairman Gurney (R-SD), of the senate armed services committee, who told reporters:

"I certainly would like to agree with Mr. Martin, but all my information is that we cannot cut the budget $6,000,000,000. In view of the news from Britain and

FIRE CAUSES $600 DAMAGE TO HOUSE

Chief Says It's Worst Blaze Since January.

A fire causing an estimated $600 damage occured at an apartment house owned by Mrs. Mary Dixon at 259 Pearl street at about 9:02 p. m. yesterday.

This was the worst fire in Marion since early January and it took an estimated 40 minutes to bring it under control, Chief Owen Sifritt said. The total time spent on the call was one hour and 20 minutes.

The fire, attributed to overheating of furnace, started in the ceiling of the downstairs apartment. It spread through the house following the partitions to the attic.

Mrs. Dixon occupies the downstairs apartment and Duane Church resides upstairs.

Another fire run was made to the home of Warren Wise at 257 Uncapher avenue at 8:25 p. m. when a chimney burned out. There was no damage.

LARGE AREA OF COUNTRY IN WINTER'S GRIP

Transportation of All Types Blocked in Many Sections of Eastern States.

Winter held a firm grip on the Marion area as well as Ohio and many sections of the Atlantic and mid-Atlantic states today.

Drifting snow closed schools in Marion, Hardin, Wyandot and Union counties.

All forms of transportation were blocked in many sections of the country.

The cold weather continued to hang over Florida.

Six Schools Closed By Snow in County

Many of the rural areas in Marion county were snowbound today. Six schools were closed due to snow clogged and icy roads and highway crews from both the state highway department and the county engineer's office were working full schedule.

Fine snow carried by a strong wind was drifted across many of the county roads, which refilled with snow almost as quickly as they were plowed out. Among the county schools closed were LaRue, Meeker, New Bloomington, Martel, Caledonia, and Prospect. Other schools in the Marion county area reported many of their buses were not able to make their runs this morning. Some of the schools may reopen tomorrow if weather conditions permit.

Farm Tractors Help

Morral dismissed school early yesterday afternoon to give buses ample time to return pupils to their homes before night. The school today had approximately 85 per cent of its normal attendance. School buses made partial runs and farmers with tractors broke through drifts to enable their children to get to school. Some parents brought their children to school in automobiles and others on sleds.

Several other schools in the county sent pupils home early yesterday afternoon.

Both the state highway department and the county engineer's office reported the north-south roads were in poorest condition. The county today was using six snow plows, including two big Gallon maintainers and four trucks equipped with snow-plows, in an effort to keep county roads open. The state highway department also had full crews at work. It reported slippery and drifted spots on routes 23 and 4 both north and south of the city. The highway department stated, however, that all state roads in the Marion area should be clear by tonight, provided good weather conditions continue.

Nearby Counties Included

The weatherman struck equally hard blows in adjoining counties. Schools were reported closed in Hardin, Wyandot and union counties as drifting snow clogged rural roads and made school bus travel hazardous and in some cases impossible.

The weather forecast promised slight relief from winter's grip with cloudy tonight and Wednesday and somewhat warmer weather Wednesday. The low temperature this morning was 10 degrees and by noon it had climbed to 30.

March Winds Blow New Weather Problems

By The Associated Press

Blustery March winds blew new weather problems into parts of the snowbound eastern section of the country today.

In many sections of the Atlantic coast and mid-Atlantic states all forms of transportation —rail, water, highway and air— were impeded by the heavy falls of snow over the weekend.

More than 40 inches of snow covered the ground in parts of Maryland and New York and house-high drifts were reported in sections of northern New England. There were at least seven deaths in New York and New England attributed to the storm.

Many communities in the snowbound area were isolated and scores of schools remained closed. Drifting snow blocked many highways. Trains were stalled, air service cancelled and bus schedules disrupted. The 8,184 ton collier Quincy L. Alexander was smashed in two and stranded upon rocks off Cape Elizabeth, Me., forcing coast guardsmen to rescue 32 seamen with a perilous breeches buoy rig.

Many small craft along the

DAILY LENTEN MEDITATIONS

IN THE CHRIST OF THE CROSS WE GLORY

Today's Text: Isaiah 53.5—"But He was wounded for our transgressions: He was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed."

* * *

WHICH of the four great events observed by the church is the greatest—the coming of the Son of God, the Holy Passion and the Crucifixion, the Resurrection, or the Ascension? Which of these events accomplishes salvation? Are we saved because the Son of God came into this world through the Virgin Mary? Are we saved because He rose from the dead? Are we saved because He went back to heaven?

All believers in Christ are saved because Jesus, God's only Son, took our place and experienced the whole judgment of God upon sin. "Who His own Self bare our sins in His body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness; by whose stripes ye were healed."

Taking the sinner's place was no ordinary experience, because Jesus said: "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?" And when we understand that we shall truly glory in the Cross of the Christ.

Mrs. Griffin will be 37 her next birthday, which isn't in March, however.

How are they going to work out all the birthday cedebrations—well, Mrs. Griffin has solved it, there will be one whopper of a celebration for everybody around the middle of the month.

High Court To Rule On "Anti-Petrillo Law"

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—The supreme court yesterday granted a government request that it rule on constitutionality of the Lea act, sometimes called the "anti-Petrillo law."

The government appealed to the high tribunal from a decision by U. S. District Judge Walter J. La Buy in Chicago that the act is unconstitutional. James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL), had contested the law.

The supreme court was asked to take the case direct from Judge La Buy's court, thus by-passing the U. S. court of appeals in Chicago. The high court agreed to do so.

The Lea act, passed by the last congress, prohibits compelling or attempting to compel broadcasters to hire more employes than are needed "to perform actual services."

Petrillo was accused of violating the act by calling a strike at a Chicago radio station. The strike was in support of a demand that the station hire more employes, although the station contended the extra workers were not needed. Judge La Buy dismissed the charge against Petrillo.

Red Cross Helps Provide Hospitals With Blood Plasma

This is one of a series of stories telling about some of the services of the Marion county chapter of the American Red Cross. The series is published to aid in Marion county's part in the annual fund campaign. Sixty-five per cent of the contribution will remain in Marion county to carry on the chapter's work.

* * *

Of all war surpluses no longer needed by the military, surplus blood plasma is one of the most valuable. It is available without charge to physicians and hospitals in every community in the country.

Physicians and hospitals may request and receive this plasma from their state departments of health. State departments of health obtain the plasma from the American Red Cross, whose supply constitutes the surplus returned to it by the military.

There is no charge for surplus plasma. The patient may be charged by his physician or hospital for administration of the plasma transfusion, but surplus plasma itself bears a label that states, "No Charge Shall Be made for This Product."

The Marion City hospital has taken advantage of this opportunity and has made the plasma available for local use. Miss Irene Tinklepaugh, superintendent of nurses at the hospital, says the hospital has received its quota every three months. She stated that it has been such a valuable service to the hospital and has been especially helpful in burn cases. She stated that this plasma is used in place of blood transfusions which prove to be quite expensive.

Surplus plasma has as its source the millions of Americans from every walk of life who gave their blood during the wartime blood program. Through the Red Cross, more than 13,000,000 pints of blood were collected and turned over to the Army and the Navy. Most of it was processed into plasma; some of it went overseas as whole blood during the latter months of the war.

What plasma and whole blood did to save lives during the war is a matter of record. Thousands are alive today because the life-saving plasma was available, even for instant use at the front lines of battle. It is doing the same job now for thousands of men, women, and children injured by accidents, suffering from severe burns, or undergoing surgical operations.

The Red Cross is distributing for civilian medical use another blood product made from surpluses derived from blood donated during the war. This product is immune serum globulin, the best known agent for the prophylaxis and modification of measles. This also is being distributed through state health departments.

Russia's 800-Year-Old Capital Primps for Four-Power Parley

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Writer

March 4—This is the eve of the four-[illegible] ministers confer-[illegible]-year-old capital of all [illegible] is getting dressed up [illegible] girl for a party. [illegible] more than 500 for-[illegible]many of them dis-[illegible] the Russians, who are [illegible] in a very cold and [illegible], are doing the best

[illegible] days just now alter-[illegible]m being bright and [illegible] to [illegible]

[illegible] are being wielded [illegible]stically in the city's [illegible] which will house the [illegible] big modern Moskva, [illegible]wling Metropole, the [illegible] comfortable National [illegible] smaller, more off-the-[illegible] Savoy.

[illegible] items are being done over. Halls are being painted. Light fixtures by the dozens are being hung. Scores of new mattresses, tables, chairs and wardrobes are being installed.

"Yes," said one of the assistant managers of the Metropole admiringly, "it's going to look like a real hotel."

Hundreds of workers are struggling more energetically than ever trying to clear the city of snow, but it is a difficult job, because so much has fallen lately.

There is still no official word on where the conference is going to be held, but the assumption is it is to be in the Speridonifka palace, where other such sessions have been staged.

Once Sugar Baron's Home

It is the former mansion of a pre-revolutionary, sugar baron—bright and beautiful on the inside, but slightly on the heavy side architecturally. Its main conference room has a motif of white gold and is featured by golden bees on the chairs, divans and tables. The conference table is a large, round and covered in green felt, and is placed beneath a sumptuous crystal chandelier.

Advance units from three visiting countries already are on the scene, making physical preparations for the conference. The French advance guard was first to arrive, followed by some British and then some Americans. The principals are coming just before the conference, with U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall expected to arrive first.

Marshall and his deputy, Robert Murphy, and probably Gen. Mark W. Clark and adviser John Foster Dulles, will live at Spasso house, the home of U. S. Ambassador W. Bedell Smith. This is a palace-like place in the Moscow residential section. It has a ballroom which will be used for an office, a movie theater which, oddly, will be used for movies and a large circular dining room with busts of Washington and Franklin, which will be used to eat in.

Rations Supplemented

The ambassador's rations are being supplemented with supplies from the U. S. army in Germany, and the eating will be pretty much American fare.

Marshall will use the same room which has been used in the past by Secretaries Cordell Hull, Edward R. Stettinius and James F. Byrnes. The other bedrooms will be ranged down the hall in dormitory fashion.

Three very hard working ladies at the moment are Mrs. Smith, Lady Peterson, wife of British Ambassador Sir Maurice Drummond Peterson, and Mme. Catroux, wife of French Ambassador Georges Catroux. These ladies must look out and cater to new tastes—and running a kitchen in Moscow in midwinter is no easy job.

And now for the Russians:

Despite pessimistic points of view being expressed abroad about prospects of arriving at agreements, the Russians are not taking this line. On conversation they express belief in the chances for success.

There is no gloom in the Russian camp.

Russians Have 5 Points

What do the Russians want out of the conference?

1. A demilitarized Germany, unable to make war on them again.

2. A central German government and not a federalized Germany of several states.

3. A portion of reparations fitting for the country which suffered most from German invasion, lost the most lives, did, in the Russians' opinion, most of the fighting and contributed most toward the defeat of Hitler.

4. A strong, centralized German trade union movement.

5. Hands off German industry by powerful American and British interests.

Newspapers Mum

Russian newspapers, as is always the case, are not writing much about the coming conference. Hundreds of words are being put on paper concerning the German question, but there is very little about the conference itself.

The Russian way is to print news when it happens, not before.

Every Russian is well aware, however, that the conference is going to be held here, and he is most hopeful for the best.

Generally speaking, these Russians expect the United States and Britain to team up. They hope it won't be too much so, however.

The average Russian has not made up his mind on just what the French position will be.

The Russians are so busy on the home front, so involved with the five-year plan, that they earnestly wish for a conference which will arrive at solid decisions, and for nothing which will muddle further the international pool.

(Tomorrow—What America expects at Moscow.)

Co. D Home From Mexican Border Thirty Years Ago

March's snowy, blowy weather is reminiscent to former members of the Co. D, Ohio National Guard of 1917 of their return to Marion a cold Sunday morning 30 years ago today.

The company had returned from several months' duty on the Mexican border, had been discharged at Fort Wayne near Detroit and pulled into Union Station March 4, 1917. Despite the cold, there was a considerable crowd at the station. The company, led by the late Capt. George T. Geran, marched up West Center street to the courthouse in a heavy snowstorm. Ceremonies there were cut short by the cold and the unit was marched to the armory and disbanded.

Officers of the company, in addition to Capt. Geran, were First Lieutenant L. W. Miller and Second Lieutenant George Crotinger.

CHORUS VISITS HERE

The children's chorus of the Crawford County Children's Home in Galion sang a group of songs for Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Clark of 529 Avondale avenue Saturday evening at their home. Mr. and Mrs. Marvin O. Adams are superintendent and matron of the home, and Mr Adams is a nephew of Mr. Clark and a native of Marion. They brought the group to Marion in the school bus and later in the evening they had a skating party. The chorus is composed of 26 boys and girls, from nine to sixteen years of age, and their accompanist is Mrs. Alta Hinkley of Blooming Grove.

PORK INCREASE MAY CONTINUE

Analyst Predicts High Prices Through Spring with Effect on Beef.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 4—Pork animals may continue to set record prices right through March and April, and if they do the cost of beef will follow the upward spiral.

Whatever happens will depend partly on the housewife and the restaurant patron, says H. M. Conwey, market analyst for the National Livestock Producers' association.

"The hog supply will drop off considerably more this month and next," Conway said in an interview. "This will continue the strong hog market, with perhaps the highest prices coming next month—if they have not already been reached.

"Skyrocketing hog prices will be shifting consumer demand to beef, pushing prices on it up too and strengthening the spring and summer market for cattle. After that, range cattle will start coming in again for short turns in the corn belt feed lots and then quick marketing."

Large consumer demands for meat and shrinking livestock supplies are among the causes of current highcost meat. Demand for meat has been only slightly abated from what it was during the last quarter of 1946.

Supplies, however, have been getting shorter. In the case of pork, the consumer must go back nearly a year to find the reason for the shortage and in the case of lamb and mutton as much as five years. Shortages of these meats help raise the market price for beef and poultry, which have been in relatively good supply.

When pork reached a record level of $30 a hundred pounds of live weight last week, it was traceable to an 11 per cent decrease estimated by the bureau of agricultural economics in the number of pigs produced last fall, while last spring's crop was only one per cent larger than the year before.

The fall decrease came about because producers were uncertain of market trends and sold off much of their breeding stock last spring and summer.

The net result was that the number of hogs six months or more old on farms Dec. 1 was down four per cent. Those coming to market now came from last spring's supplies and because of invitingly high market prices are being shipped at lighter-than-usual poundage.

The department of agriculture said most of those spring pigs already had been marketed and packers who see little prospect for early larger supplies are jumping into the market to take what they can get—regardless of price. This will last only so long as consumers will absorb all offerings.

BLACK MARKET SEEN IN NEWSPRINT CRISIS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—Ed M. Anderson, an official of the National Editorial association, told senators today that "black market" operators are forcing up prices of newsprint and that their activities are expanding.

Anderson, chairman of the association's newsprint committee, testified at a senate small business sub-committee inquiry into the shortage of newsprint—the paper on which newspapers are printed.

As a result of high prices for newsprint, prevailing shortages and the prospect of a continued scarcity, Anderson said, small publishers are even now confronted with a crisis. He added:

"Unless something is done to prevent it from becoming worse, the time is not far distant when we will face a truly grave crisis in the small publishing industry."

Anderson reported that black market prices for newsprint range from $150 to $300 a ton. (A commerce department official told a reporter, who requested a comparison, that the "prevailing" price of newsprint delivered in New York is $85 a ton).

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX RETURNS NOW UP TO 500

To date more than 500 returns have been made on personnal property tax, figures in the office of the county auditor shows. Deadline for filing is April 1.

Payment of personal tax is obligatory for persons engaged in farming, business, owning, stocks, bonds and also applies to dividends or interest on investments, the law prescribes. Personal property, business and other taxable enterprises are taxable as of Jan. 1, and non-producing property is taxable at the market value as of Jan. 1, according to the law.

Approximately 3,500 personal property blanks upon which returns may be made have been mailed to residents in the county.

Sacred Lily of India Blooms for Owner Here

A rare flower, the sacred lily of India, is in bloom at the home of Mrs. Stephen Sterling of 312 Patterson street. The flower, which is one and one-half feet tall, grows from a three-foot stalk and is deep purple in color. It flowered Monday and while not as fresh as at first it is still in full bloom. The flower blooms only a short time and only once in 10 years. This is the first time the flower has bloomed since it came into possession of Mrs. Sterling five years ago. The only unpleasant feature is that the odor is most objectionable. Anyone wishing to see the flower will be welcome, the owner states.

During the Victorian era, ceramic tile was used in every structure of consequence throughout Europe and Britain.

ACCUSES G.O.P. OF VIOLATING PLEDGES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4 — Executive Director Gael Sullivan of the Democratic national committee said today the "Taft-Tory leadership" of Republicans in congress "is now in headlong flight from the party pledge of sound fiscal and foreign policy."

In a statement commenting on G.O.P. Chairman Carroll Reece's appeal for Republican representatives and senators to back up their leaders as a team, Sullivan said:

"The Republican party's old guard leadership, having won an election, is once again assuming its true character.

"The Taft - Wherry - Halleck leadership, like the little group of wilful men who stabbed peace in the back in 1920, is attempting to make history repeat; and the Republican national committee is calling upon the congressional membership to fall into line.

"For today's quick profit, these Republicans would risk tomorrow's quicker death. For today's lower taxes, they would gamble tomorrow's national solvency."

Senator Taft (Ohio) is chairman of the senate policy committee, Senator Wherry (Neb) is party whip and Rep. Halleck (Ind) is house floor leader.

The Republican organization on Capitol Hill has been pressing for reduction in federal spending to permit income tax cuts averaging 20 per cent. The Democratic minority and some Republicans are insisting that national defense and payments on the national debt must come first.

CARDINGTON BOARD ASKS BOND APPROVAL

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON—The Cardington board of education has passed a resolution declaring the necessity for issuing bonds and submitting the issue to the voters of the Cardington school district at an election May 6 for the purpose of constructing classrooms, rebuilding the heating system, adding a new auditorium large enough to seat 1,000 people and provide more stage facilities. The estimated cost of the bond issue was given as $100,000.

Copies of the resolutions were sent to the Ohio tax commission and the Morrow county board of elections for approval.

This same issue was submitted to the voters at the regular election last November and was defeated, failing to receive the 65 per cent required for passage.

According to the school board construction will not start until building costs are more favorable. In seeking approval of the issue the board believes the school district can be benefited by the low interest rate, since general obligation bonds are now selling as low as 2 per cent.

5 Arrested in Ohio, Kentucky Theft Ring

MORROW CO. BUYS HOMES FOR VETERANS

Two More Buildings Available to Ex-Servicemen.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, March 4—Two homes in Cardington have been purchased by the Morrow county commissioners to provide temporary emergency housing for veterans of World War II.

One house was purchased from Elza Click at a cost of $2,650 and the other house was purchased from L. S. Russell at a cost of $3,800 and may be made into a duplex before being rented. Veterans desiring to rent the houses have been asked to get in touch with Lafe Courtright, the Morrow county service officer at his office in the courthouse.

The commissioners have now spent a total of $13,400 for four homes in Morrow county. Two were purchased in January in Mt. Gilead. A total of $13,590.23 had been allotted the county by the state legislature last year.

The commissioners have also announced the purchase of a 1947 Ford Deluxe Tudor sedan from the Gordon and Jagger Motor Sales in Mt. Gilead for use by the Morrow county sheriff, Tom England. The present car of the sheriff will be traded in for the new model.

The pictures, which have been made available through the cooperation of the local Army Recruiting office, are from the war department's film library at Fort Hayes, Columbus. A varied program has been arranged covering various types of pictures. Subjects include the capture of Saipan, a seized Luftwaffe film which deals with Germany's plans and preparation for war, her invasion of Czechoslovakia and Poland, a cartoon, "Snafu Rumors" and a "March of Time" with New England as the setting.

The program is open to veterans, their families and friends. Because of the limited seating capacity the programs are limited to adults.

Strip Tourist's Pockets

...result in the tourist ...even break, but for ...Lane Syne's sake or else just to keep in practice for next year, the Cuban entrepreneurs merrily sandbag him with high rates and strip his pockets of everything except his draft card.

Being one of the world's foremost easy marks, I got clipped three times before I learned that to say "no" in Spanish you just say "no."

By then I had been steered into a $5 rattle-taxi ride into the city from the airport instead of taking the comfortable $1 special bus, relieved of $3.50 for a 65-cent blue plate luncheon, and railroaded into a $24-a-day hotel room with museum plumbing.

Finally I got the hotel rate down to $12 by threatening to commit hari-kiri in the lobby.

Divided Into 2 Classes

Tourists to Cuba are divided into two classes: (1) those who flap out to look at historic Morro Castle and 2) those who can read. The latter sit on a bar stool at Sloppy Joe's and leer through the guide books.

"A beautiful city — Havana," they agree, and the bartender distills another row of cooling daiquiris.

A trip to Havana for the average tourist is as much a ritual as a marriage ceremony. The defenseless visitor is expected to do these things:

1. Swallow as much orange juice, pineapple juice or rum as he can.

2. Get his shoes polished every three blocks.

3. Charter a cab every fifteen minutes, and never ask the price in advance as this tends to limit the number of houses the drivers can buy in a season.

4. Visit a rhumba Emporium every night.

5. Take one $5 and one $10 guided tour of the city each day.

6. Buy at least four of the following items (a) a box of Havana cigars; (b) five bottles of rum—the amount you can take back to the states duty free; (c) a $30 to $60 alligator handbag, regardless of any animosity your wife, sweetheart or mother may have toward reptiles, living or fabricated; (d) a mahogany salad bowl, and (e) a $2.75 bottle of French perfume the size of an anemic medicine dropper.

7. Wipe out his bank account gambling at the racetrack or the Casino Nacional.

8. Attend a peep show in a house of ill fame. (This is optional, but strongly recommended by the taxi drivers, who receive a share in the fee).

An American tourist who follows this ritual to the letter—as so many do—can fly home content in the soul-satisfying knowledge that from the Cuban viewpoint, he has carried out the "good neighbor" policy very well. And the "Pearl of the Antilles" will gladly welcome him back—as soon as he can load his pockets again with Philadelphia mint sugar.

YOUR HEALTH

Baby's Skin

The skin of a child is so different in appearance from that of the adult, that scarcely anyone will be surprised to learn that it really is different, both in its makeup and its reactions to things which come in contact with it.

Delicate and tender as it is, it is more apt than the adult skin to become infected because of uncleanliness. Yet, on the other hand, it can stand much less of the rough treatment grownups use to promote cleanliness. Thus, mothers should be on guard against overenthusiasm when it comes to keeping the baby or small child clean. Too frequent bathing, the use of strong soaps, medicated oils or powders may bring about excessive dryness and irritation.

If a child's skin is so delicate that it is easily irritated by plain water, Dr. James W. Burks, Jr., of New Orleans, suggests that the skin be cleaned with some oil preparation, such as equal parts of olive oil and lime water, or what is known as a colloidal bath may be employed. Such a bath is carried out as follows:

A paste is prepared of one cup of cornstarch and one-fourth cup of baking soda, and put into about one-half tub of warm water. The baby is bathed for 20 to 30 minutes daily, or less often if the skin is dry.

Another method is to boil two cups of oatmeal in one quart of water for 30 to 45 minutes in a double boiler. This is allowed to cool for 15 minutes, and then one-half cup of baking soda is added. This mixture is then poured into a gauze bag and tied shut. A bathtub is filled about one-half full at about 90 deg. to 96 deg. Farenheit, and the infant is allowed to remain in the tub for 30 to 120 minutes. The oatmeal bag is squeezed and what comes through the gauze is applied to the skin.

Before taking the child from the tub, the oatmeal is washed off with plain water and the skin dried by patting, not rubbing. Baths of this type may be employed when there is some general irritation of the skin. However, their use may result in dry skin and if this does happen, the skin may be covered with a mixture of equal parts of olive oil and lime water.

Inflammation of the skin particularly that of the buttocks may develop from contact with ammonia formed from the urea in the urine. This inflammation of the skin may be quite severe. In order to prevent it, it is suggested that the baby's diaper be frequently changed, and the diapers be made of soft, clean material. After laundering the diapers they should be rinsed in a solution of boric acid and then allowed to dry. The skin may be treated with lotions, dusting powders or oil mixtures which help and protect it against further irritation.

If the baby develops skin rash, an examination should be carried out at once to determine exactly what type is present. Then the most useful form of treatment may be employed.

Takeoff for 1948

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S flight to Mexico looks like the official takeoff for 1948.

This is an attention-attracting trip. Mr. Truman's other jaunts have been for his own quiet pleasure.

His assignment as probable party leader in the presidential campaign of 1948 is to develop a political personality. It is not going to be enough to be a pale shadow of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. Truman is expected to get off the defensive; in last fall's congressional election he was so handicapped in that respect it was wiser for him not to speak at all. He will assert some propositions of his own. He will gear himself to the mood of the people, and it seems likely that may call in the next six months for stronger executive leadership.

He will try to get his countrymen out of the habit of thinking of Harry Truman as the man who was vice president when President Roosevelt died and into the habit of thinking of President Truman, who succeeded Franklin D. Roosevelt. In every way possible, Mr. Truman will try to attract attention—favorable attention. The Mexico journey looks like the takeoff.

First Hunger, Then Despotism

ONE TRUISM is repeated so often that the repetition itself is becoming significant: that communism flourishes when populations are desperate from hunger.

The proposition in reverse is that the only way to strengthen popular government in insecure countries is to make certain that the people get enough to eat.

This is the essence of the European problem of postwar reconstruction. The contest between the Soviet Union and the United States for influence is a contest for control of human beings through alternative methods.

The Soviet Union is trying to increase its influence by spreading its special form of political control, a procedure calling for infiltration, seizure of the keys of public power, overthrow of existing authority and all previous principles and, finally, establishment of regimes which will be agreeable to—and responsible to—the Kremlin.

The United States is trying to increase its influence by spreading another form of control—the control of men's political practices by improving their state of being. The United States firmly believes that no population deliberately chooses any kind of despotism, but that despotism is foisted on populations which first have been made desperate by hunger, privation, fear and the kind of desperation which prompts men to believe that anything would be better than what they have.

The United States further believes that the kind of government which the Kremlin's agitators and agents are offering Europe's and Asia's desperate populations is a form of despotism—a conviction that is deepening the cleavage between Washington and Moscow day by day. From the American point of view, communism, in the form which has been evolved under the Stalin regime, is not government, but a substitute for government, imposed by the Kremlin's agents when government has failed.

Cause and Effect

THE EXPERIENCES we are having in this first quarter of 1947 are the effects of causes in 1946. There are almost no strikes, for instance, because in 1946 it was made evident to the leaders of this year's potential strikes that they would be pressing their luck in 1947.

But there is a shortage of freight cars in 1947 because in 1946 there were too many interruptions in production of steel. The effect of those interruptions is a shortage of steel for car repairs and new-car construction.

Automobiles, which were expected to be plentiful by the first quarter of 1947, are still in desperately short supply because in the first quarter of 1946 and thereafter during the year strikes handicapped their manufacture and the production of supplies used in auto production. There was similar interference in 1946 with manufacture of other durable goods which the public is eager to buy, but whose production was delayed, with a multitude of effects only now becoming fully visible.

Last year's concerted effort to stabilize wage rates for peacetime work at wartime levels is being felt now as goods produced at higher cost finally reach the consumer level. It is ironic when the same persons who last year were doing everything they could to force prices higher by raising the cost of production complain that prices this year are too high. They have failed to see the obvious connection between cause and effect.

But the connection is there. The whole country is paying the cost in higher prices of the things that were done during 1946 to make all kinds of goods and services more expensive. The purchasing power of dollars was diminished in 1946. Dollars therefore are purchasing less in 1947.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Importance of Home Town Problems Stressed.

MIAMI, March 4—My treading on the sunny sands here, with notebook and pencil (not counting the days it rained) has developed many novel ideas about what is wrong with the world and what should be done about it.

Stepping over a couple of labor union tycoons, who were involved in whispers picking the winner of the third race at Hialeah, I found a former government official. He is a Democrat, it is true, but this is not considered a blemish upon reputation in Florida. At least he can claim he was in the Roosevelt administration away back when it was good, and his distance from events the past few years has given an objectivity to his normally careful judgment. In fact he had just about the only clear head in Washington when he was there. It is still clear. He well knows what is going on around the world. So I asked him what he thought should be done.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said, "but up in Washington they will not pay any attention to what I think—because I do think. They do not seem to want anyone who thinks up there. And you will be surprised by my answer.

"World thought has simply been moving in the wrong direction. We have been working our heads off for world solutions which have proved to be impossible of achievement practically. I do not need to say why. Everyone knows common world agreement on fundamentals has been and will be blocked.

Work for Home Folks

"Yet many solutions can be reached at home. By this I do not mean within our hemisphere, or our nation particularly, although some agreement can be achieved in both places. I mean you must do down into your own community for primary solutions to many problems. The people must achieve some real and sincere action among themselves, springing directly from themselves. That is where the people can find success easier to attain for improving the conditions under which they live.

"Every community has a housing problem which is desperate, and more important to the lives of human beings than abstract national and international bickerings. Housing really and immediately affects how people live. Everywhere you will find large groups of veterans, and others, housed in quonset huts or modernized swamp shacks.

"We talk about the atom bomb, budgets and the unions, to the over-shadowing of the really important local problems. Say the Chamber of Commerce is meeting tonight at 8 p. m. How many will be there? Not 50, I expect. Two or three people run every civic organization. The public at large makes its yearly contribution to the community chest and considers its duty done.

"What about juvenile delinquincy (by this I mean parental delinquency), zoning problems, rent controls—even labor. I was reading in a financial newspaper the other day about the large number of labor disputes which have been settled on a local basis. You could really settle a great section of that whole problem if you had an awakened influence at work in your local community.

Talks That Miss Targets

"People are not bringing themselves up to their local responsibilities. Women's clubs and garden clubs hire a speaker who will talk weightily on the budget. I just heard one the other day, or rather heard of him through my wife. Now what on earth can a woman's club do about the budget? Talks along that line are all right but the local organizations need to concentrate first on the problems they know best. They need to get together and exchange views and find solutions which will improve the primary facilities of life for the ordinary mortal human.

"Some people say we lack leadership in Washington. In a democracy the people must assume some responsibilities of leadership themselves. They are not doing it. They are letting matters drift. They should be shamed into some action. The local press could well take up this matter and encourage people to shake off their total concentration on world affairs, to attend the meetings of their civic organizations, to speak out and take steps. I did this line of work among the business people of my state for a while and they did take hold on a local basis, at least for a time.

"You are a columnist with more than 300 newspapers. Pass the word along to the communities you reach. Maybe you will awaken some local leadership, which as I say, is what this world of ours—the particular spot in it in which we may dwell—most needs right now for the common good. Tell your churches that. Tell your educational profession.

"If you get enough people to work locally, you will soon see a different country."

Would-Be Conquerors: Keep Out Of Indiana!

In Indianapolis a bill has been introduced in the state legislature which would ban "unauthorized use" of atomic bombs.

Thus Indiana rushes in where UNO fears to tread.

Soon aggressor nations will have to answer, if not to the international police force, at least to the local sheriff.

Indiana is the first state to consider such action, others apparently figuring that use of atomic bombs is already covered by municipal ordinances prohibiting the creating of disturbances.

Incidentally, what do they mean "unauthorized use?" Will justices of the peace issue nuclear fission licenses the same as pistol-toting permits?

At any rate, it's reassuring to know that soon now atomic warfare will not only be recognized as heinous, brutal and diabolic, but also against the law in Indiana.

This Cockeyed World

By RAYMOND MOLEY

IT IS strange to see England seeking loans, moratoriums and the like from countries which were traditionally dependent upon her. For almost a century, the British loans created ports, railroads and industries on many continents. When the prewar world debts were at their peak, in 1922, Britain owned about $20,000,000,000 in foreign investments. The great depression cut this somewhat, but the war gave it a mortal blow.

Some weeks ago the astonishing spectacle was presented of a British mission headed by Sir Wilfrid Eady seeking to negotiate a moratorium for England in India. That conglomerate country has become a creditor of the British Empire to the tune of 1,200 million pounds. India, the colony for which Disraeli 70 years ago created an imperial crown, was not very cordial to the mission. It was told that India expected every Englishman to do his duty. The Indian people said they expected Britain to provide sufficient dollars and other good non-British money to make purchases outside the British Empire, especially in the so-called dollar area. India, moreover, expressed a desire for capital goods on account, in order to initiate an ambitious program of industrialization. The labors of the mission are continuing but the prospects are not bright.

Another Creditor

The same mission must make a stopover in Egypt which is even more significant of changed times. Britain owes Egypt 500 million pounds. This is the equivalent of more than half of the money borrowed last year from the United States. The mission will ask a moratorium on the debt to Egypt also. And this moratorium must be obtained before July of this year.

Egypt will be easier to deal with than India. Britain is the largest buyer of Egyptian cotton and of other commodities.

While in Egypt the mission will see a bitter reminder of the decline of the Empire. The British army is withdrawing from the Suez canal.

Iraq will next be visited. This British-made country is also a creditor and again a moratorium will be sought.

Only one conclusion can be drawn from all this. Britain will be in dire need of "hard currency" for a long time. The cold winter and the fumbling of the Labor government will make it still more difficult to hold together the remains of the empire.

Little Government Aid

There is no doubt about one thing. The necessary expansion of exports has not been helped by the Labor government's expanding program of nationalization. It is too much to expect that hardheaded people in creditor countries will extend their confidence to a nation that is facing socialism on a large scale. Nor will capitalists in England make the necessary plant improvements in the face of nationalism. And unless British plants are modernized, there will be little to export. There is talk already of nationalizing the chemical industry. This has been one of Britain's most progressive business and it is also one of those industries least suited to socialism.

These evidences of distress are a great blow to British pride. The necessary but painful search for relief are followed by a nation with heavy hearts.

Greek Action Difficult for U. S.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THOUGH it has long been evident that Great Britain was reducing her commitments and that the United States would have to redress the balance, the timing of the British notice about Greece is very awkward indeed. The American people are asked to make a very grave decision before the end of this month, in the very weeks the President and the secretary of state are to be away from Washington, out of touch with congress, separated from their military and financial advisers, and deeply preoccupied with other matters. It will not be easy under these conditions to form a considered American policy or to explain it responsibly to our people.

There is no apparent reason for forcing so abrupt a decision before March 31 except that this date happens to mark the end of the British fiscal year. The British government, though it must cut drastically its foreign expenditures, has not suddenly run out of funds as of March 31.

The fixing of that most inconvenient time limit is an accident of the procedure on the budget, and not—as, for example, the abandonment of the gold standard in 1931—an uncontrollable event.

The immediate need, therefore, is for a stop-gap arrangement with the British government which covers the immediate emergency in Great Britain and in Greece, and permits us to examine here, and with the British government, the great issues which are at stake. It is not any one's interest that they should be dealt with in an atmosphere of panic.

For if, as is the case, the British are overextended, it is of absolute primary importance that the United States should not in its turn become overextended. This will require strategical judgment of the highest order and at the highest level as to where and how the military and financial power of this country must be, and can be most effectively, applied.

Economic Help Needed

We cannot be everywhere, and do everything, all over the world at once, and it is essential that we pick and choose. If that is to be done wisely, it will not be while President Truman and Secretary Marshall are away from Washington where the picking and choosing will have to be done.

The first think we have to recognize is that while the problems of the threatened areas of Europe and Asia cannot be solved without large economic action on our part, basic military and strategic considerations are involved. To intervene in Greece, for example, is not a matter of money alone. It is a military commitment, even though the troops stationed in Greece continue to be British troops. For the support of these troops would be an American responsibility, and, if necessary, their reinforcement.

How the Greek outpost is to be maintained has to be judged in the light of all our military commitments around the world. For we are also committed in Germany and in Japan and in Italy and in Korea and in the Philippines, all over the two oceans, and the measure of our ability to support these commitments is not the size of our national income but the amount of our available military man power.

In measuring how we can meet our responsibilities we have, therefore, to consider whether, as we seek to contain the Soviet expansion, we have to do it and can do it at points like the Greek mainland and like Korea and China where the Russian military man power, which is so much greater than our own, can most easily and cheaply be applied.

Natural Habitat

We are a sea and air power primarily, and our natural military habitat is in places where power can be exerted without confronting directly the inexhaustible masses of the Russian infantry. We should scrutinize very carefully, therefore, any military commitment on the mainland of the Eurasian continent within marching distance of the Soviet Union.

We have one unavoidable commitment on the Eurasian continent—in the heart of Germany. All the more reason, therefore, why we should not weaken that commitment by dissipating our slender resources of military man power at beachheads, which at best can only be held defensively.

In accepting a growing responsibility for the security of the Middle East, it is necessary, therefore, that we ask ourselves where and how—given the characteristics of our own military power—we can most effectively commit ourselves. There is little doubt that the key position both for the defense of the Middle East and for the counteroffensive is in Turkey.

The strategical importance of Greece is in its relation to Turkey, and it may well be that is the crucial question now, as it was when the Germans overran the Greek mainland, Crete and the other Greek islands. It may follow that while we must, of course, give emergency economic assistance to Greece, we should fix our attention on the islands, which are not only of greater strategical importance but are far more suitable to the kind of military power which the United States can muster.

The decisions which have now to be made are remarkably similar to the high strategical decisions of the war. It is impossible to reinforce every theater, to fill every vacuum of power and restore at one and the same time the whole shattered economic life of Europe and Asia. We have to choose not only what to hold but what to let go of, and where in fact to begin to rebuild.

The problem is global. The need for help is worldwide. But unless we are to dissipate our effort and to fail, we must select the key points and the key countries. It is better to do all that is needed to succeed, let us say in the United Kingdom, France and western Europe, than to do a little everywhere and not enough anywhere. The choices are bitter and hard. But not to choose will mean failure that will be even harder and more bitter.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Passing of An Old Institution

AMERICA is losing something in the passing of the old-fashioned Saturday night. We indorse a recent national weekly magazine editorial deploring the spread into the smaller cities and towns of the idea of closing stores early on Saturday that Saturday night shopping is disappearing.

* * *

"Merchants in the smaller towns are taking a big chunk of pleasure out of life in their communities by heading into this program," the publication quotes a Minnesota country editor as writing. "The Saturday night shopping trip is like the Saturday night bath. It has a social angle. Nothing does so much for keeping town and country contacts."

* * *

Good here! But there is little hope. In the headlong dive into a new order of shorter days, shorter weeks, shorter schedules and shorter sweats the American week has been processed into a five-day affair with the old-fashioned Saturday blitzed to a fare-thee-well.

* * *

Saturday night was the great night of the American week through most of its history. It was something to look forward to. It had the flavor of a combination picnic, bazaar, county fair and jamboree. There was a banjo-on-my-knee mood to it.

* * *

Everybody in town met everybody else. The cash registers, cafe pianos, German bands, Salvation Army tambourines, tavern quartets, street car bells, laughter and arguments blended in a music that was All-American.

* * *

Some folks came to town to get a little oiled up, some to see the sights, some to shop, some to show off a new suit, some to promenade, some to fight and some just to get a haircut or shave, but all came for a frolic, and all knew they would meet more friends and neighbors than they could run into any other way.

* * *

The stores kept open until 10 and closed reluctantly. The dimming of the store lights was as sad as the last tune at the country dance. The crowds were slow going home. Saturday night died hard.

* * *

Today the people quit work Friday night or early Saturday and settle into a prolonged program of weekend recreations that will make 'em miserable. They don't get as much fun out of forty-eight-hour pursuit of happiness as they used to get between 7 and 1 Saturday night.

* * *

Yesterday people went to town Saturday night, fresh, smiling and in a mood for high adventure, and got back around midnight still feeling they had a good time. Today they pile into the jalopy early Saturday morn in a mood of irritation and with their faces fairly screamin' "We're off for a weekend and Lord how we hate it!"

* * *

They spend two days arguing at traffic intersections, quarreling over road maps, differing about detours, trying to outwit traffic cops, losing their tempers, getting indigestion and putting nicks in their nervous systems. They get back late Sunday night or early Monday morning not on speaking terms and in need of medical attention.

* * *

They have met nobody except crabby strangers. They haven't laughed once. And their only shopping has been for hot dogs and clam chowders.

* * *

Go easy, boys, on this blitzing of Saturday nights! It was a wonderful institution for keeping the country normal, healthy, fairly refreshed and certainly with less dirt in its ears.

FLORIDA is having a record crop of robberies this winter. It seems that one or two underworld characters managed to slip through the police lines down there in some mysterious way.

"President Truman said federal departments would have to oust federal workers who are not efficient.—News item.

* * *

Wanna bet?

Speaking of race horses being transported from coast to coast by plane it seems to us it must be disconcerting to be in a transport and hear somebody say, after looking from the windows, "A horse just passed."

* * *

No matter where you might expect to see a horse in the past, you never looked for one between two clouds. And a parachute was never compulsory equipment for a stableboy. It may soon become a commonplace to hear that a horse lost a race because of a bad landing. And to read in the racing charts such notations as "Needs work on terra firma," "Getting back to earth now" and "Rounding into form after stratospheric setback."

Spring Suits

By TRUMAN TWILL

The advertisement said it is time to start thinking about a spring suit. All right, let's think about it.

A spring suit should be light and airy, suggestive of lilies of the valley, purple crocuses and daffodils in the bright sunlight.

It should be everything the old winter suit isn't, meaning there should be no raw edges on the coat cuffs, no wornout places on the pants cuffs, no holes in the pockets, no gravy spots anywhere.

It should have a vest, not because vests are customarily worn with spring suits but because vests used to accompany spring suits when it was customary to have spring suits. This thing of a spring suit is a sentimental gesture.

It isn't the fact a man needs a suit to wear in the spring, which is as nasty a season as fall or winter, but the fact a man needs something to make him feel springy.

A spring suit used to do this when we were still in knickers. Papa would take us by the hand and we'd go to the store where they treated Papa right in important clothing transactions.

"Fix up this boy with a spring suit," he'd say, and they'd bring out the suits, after trying on a few coats for size.

"Is that all you have?" Papa would ask when maybe 10 were on the table. He knew they had more; they always held something back. All right then, he'd look at those too.

Finally, everything was out. Papa would act despondent. He would give curt answers to the question: "Don't you like this one, papa, hun, papa, huh?" He would play hard to catch.

That was the signal for the man to turn on the steam. He'd make a generous concession on the price of that one, if papa liked it—pointing out to the one he'd figured Papa intended to buy because he'd been particular about asking the price.

Papa would still be undecided. We'd try on the coat again. Then slip on the pants for size in the stuffy little room back of the three-way mirror.

"All right," he'd finally say, grudgingly, "I'll take it if you'll throw in a little something." A "little something" was a genuine leather belt, a pocket knife, or a necktie.

"Sure," the man would say. "Don't I always?"

We and Papa used to buy some nice merchandise that way. Spring was a real occasion. It meant a new suit. And new shoes, too, after the man said he'd throw in a can of polish and two pairs of laces. The suit was supposed to last until the next spring—and did—but it was a spring suit.

Mr. and Mrs. William Neff of Martel, who marked their golden wedding anniversary on Tuesday, Feb. 25, were honored at a meeting of the Martel Grange that evening in the Martel school auditorium.

The couple were escorted down the anniversary path to chairs which were placed between two seven branch candelabra which held lighted gold tapers, and the wedding march was played by Mrs. Elma Downs. They were presented a large basket of flowers from the Grange by Kenneth Pangborn, master. Mrs. Jay Hedding, sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and a vocal duet, "Fifty Years Ago" was given by Mrs. Kenneth Pangborn and Miss Lois Pangborn. For the last number, which was unrehearsed, a quartet composed of Everett Douce, Ivan Downs, Cover Rinehart and Mr. Neff sang Mr. Neff's favorite song, "Old Black Joe." Short talks were given by both Mr. and Mrs. Neff. Recognition was also made that Mr. and Mrs. Neff's nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Neff, were celebrating their thirty-second wedding anniversary also that same day. The color scheme of gold and white was carried out in the decorations.

Also on the program, which was in charge of Mrs. Clyde F. Logan, was a paper on Thomas A. Edison given by Mrs. Walter Lea. All members having birthdays in February were honored with the birthday song.

During the meeting, eight candidates for membership were voted on, and a report on the state grange convention was given by Mrs. Charles Brady, who attended as one of the county delegates. Earl Douce, the legislative agent, read a short article on the proposed merger of the Martel, Kirkpatrick and Caledonia schools.

Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brady of Grand Prairie Grange, Mrs. Laura Neff White of Ridgefield Park, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. Zenith Waldbauer of Martel. Refreshments were served by the home economics committee with Mrs. Oscar Augenstein as chairman.

Barbara Hutton Reported On Honeymoon with 4th Husband

By The Associated Press

CHUR, Switzerland, March 4—Barbara Woolworth Hutton, one of the wealthiest women in the world, was reported honeymooning in the Swiss Alps at Zurich today with her fourth husband, 34-year-old Prince Igor Troubetzkoy, a descendant of Lithuanian royalty.

The marriage registry bureau in Chur, a town of about 11,000 persons in the valley of the upper Rhine in eastern Switzerland, said they were married here last Saturday. Witnesses to the ceremony were Sorne Savely, Russian-born artist, and Anna Lynne, an American, both of Paris.

The registry office said the couple arrived here by taxi from Zurich—a trip of about 150 miles—after the prince telephoned ahead and asked the registrar to keep their plans secret. The newlyweds left 500 Swiss francs ($115) for the indigent of Chur, stopped at a Chur tearoom and then taxied back to Zurich.

The bride—heiress to the Woolworth five and ten cent store fortune, estimated at upwards of $20,000,000—listed her name in the Chur records as Barbara Grant Hutton. Her marriage to movie star Cary Grant ended in divorce in Los Angeles on Aug. 30, 1945.

She said she was a Danish subject, born in New York on Nov 4, 1912. The records listed her address as Tangier, Morocco. She renounced her U. S. citizenship in 1937, while married to Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow of Denmark.

The records listed the groom as the son of a Lithuanian noble family which migrated to France in 1912. Lithuania now is part of Russia. He was born in Paris on Aug. 23, 1912 and is a French citizen. His parents live on the Riviera. The records for the prince said "no occupation." Friends said it was his first marriage.

All three of the heiress' previous marriages ended in divorce. She was married in Paris on June 22, 1933, to Prince Alexis Midivani of Georgia, the native state of Prime Minister Stalin of Russia. Four priests officiated at the ceremony. A few months later, on her 21st birthday she came into her fortune.

She divorced the polo-playing prince in Reno on May 13, 1935, charging extreme cruelty. The next day, in Reno, she married Count Haugwitz-Reventlow. Her only child, Lance, a son, was born of that union on Feb. 25, 1936 in London. Doctors despaired of her life for a time after she gave birth to the child, but she recovered.

She divorced the Count in Denmark on March 1, 1941. He is now an American citizen. Custody of the child was divided between the two and has been the subject of litigation since. On July 8, 1942, she married Grant but divorced him on the ground that he did not like her friends — mental cruelty.

The heiress and her groom arrived in Zurich Feb. 28 from St. Moritz, where they had announced they intended to be wed in Paris "soon." The hotel management said they intended to remain in Zurich a few days before proceeding to Paris.

Marriages Top Divorce Total During Month

Marriage licenses issued outnumbered the divorces filed in Marion county during February, a check of the records in the probate court and clerk of courts office shows.

Forty-six licenses were issued during the shortest month of the year in comparison with 34 divorce actions filed. Twenty-one divorces were granted, 13 to wives and eight to husbands. In four of the actions, women were restored to former names. Two divorce actions were dismissed.

Nine children were involved in the proceedings and in seven instances custody was granted to the mother and two to the father.

Court Rules Against U. S. in Rail Rate Case

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—The supreme court yesterday ruled the federal government was not entitled to reduced railroad rates on phosphates shipped to Great Britain under the lend-lease act.

The phosphates, owned by the United States, were hauled by the Seaboard Air Line railway and the Atlantic Coast Line railroad to port cities for export as farm fertilizer.

Justice Douglas delivered the court's 8-1 decision. Justice Rutledge dissented.

In another case presenting the same basic issue, the court unanimously rejected a claim by the Northern Pacific Railway company that it was entitled to full commercial rates on five wartime shipments to Alaska.

Justice Douglas also delivered this decision.

The U. S. circuit court in Chicago decided the shipmets on the Northern Pacific were military and naval property entitled to land-grant cut rates. The railroad appealed to the supreme court.

Building Costs Held Too High To Start School Program Now

Plans Discussed at Board Meeting; Silver Street Remodeling May Start This Summer.

Construction costs are too high to launch Marion's full-scale $2,100,000 school building program at the present time.

This was the opinion expressed by Marion board of education members at their regular meeting Monday afternoon.

The board also presented additional figures to two representatives of the Marion Central Labor Union (AFL), E. E. Crizer and R. W. Beverly, to show that the recently adopted salary schedule for school personnel would require practically all the revenue derived from the two-mill school operating levy.

Discussion of the building program followed the reading of a letter from T. J. McLaughlin of the McLaughlin and Keil architectural firm of Lima, in which it was recommended that work not be started until prices come down. The board previously had asked the firm for an opinion on the building program.

Initial step in the program was taken when the board approved a contract with Charles W. Oborn, local architect, for drawing up plans for remodeling the Silver street school, and members expressed a hope that work there would start this summer.

Bond Issue Voted

Marion voters last May passed a $2,100,000 bond issue to finance the building program, which in addition to the Silver street school project, proposes a new Junior-Senior high school on the present stadium site, a new junior high school at the North State street school site, new lighting facilities for other school buildings and community rooms for the Oak and Olney street schools.

Levi Welch, superintendent of school buildings and grounds, discussed some phases of the lighting porgram with board members and was requested to make a survey of lighting needs and present his report at the next board meeting.

The board also approved the installation of a new boiler for the Greenwood school building.

Two representatives of the Marion Civic Planning association present to hear the board's report on its building program were Ben T. Wiant and Forest Sharrock.

The board asked for an opinion from the association on the advisability of drawing up plans for the building program so that when building costs do come down the survey already will have been made. Mr. Wiant said he would take up the matter with other members of his committee and report back to the board.

Ask for Report

The Central Labor union delegates asked the board for a report showing teachers' and school custodians' present salaries as compared to those before the new salary schedule went into effect. The board agreed to prepare such a report, which will be sent to the union and also to the Civic Planning association.

Board Clerk J. D. Torrance reviewed for the union representatives figures he had presented at the January board meeting showing that 92 per cent of the total amount certified from the two-mill levy would go for salaries for school personnel this year. He further pointed out that only one city in Ohio, Youngstown, out of 113 Ohio city school districts, spent more for instrucion out of the available dollar than Marion in the 1945-46 school year.

Instruction costs in Marion schools represented 76.1 per cent of every dollar, compared to 71.7 per cent for other cities in the 30,000 to 99,000 population group and to a state average of 72 per cent.

He also told the union delegates that the percentage of the available dollar spent for instruction has shown an increase during the last few years. The figure in 1940-41 was 73.4 per cent and in 1943-44 it was 75.5 per cent.

Make Statement

Both Mr. Crizer and Mr. Beverly told the board they felt much of the disagreement over the salary schedule was due to a misunderstanding as to how the funds for the two-mill levy were being spent. After Clerk Torrance presented his report, they told the board "We know a lot more about the situation than we did before."

Further business included a report from probate court notifying the board that Harding High school was one of the beneficiaries named in the will of the late Miss Floretta Allmendinger.

Presiding at the meeting was Frank Robinson, vice president of the board. Other members present were Dr. D. W. Brickley Jr., and Mr. Torrance.

James Marlow

There's a difference with commissioned officers.

The first $1,500 of their service pay is tax free dating back to Jan. 1, 1943 and doesn't have to be reported. With that first $1,500 tax free, they don't have to report any additional service pay unless it is $500 or more.

Officer Examples Cited

So commissioned officers don't have to file a return on their service pay unless it was more than $1,999.99. For example:

An officer received $1,900 service pay and $100 civilian income from dividends on stocks.

He forgets the first $1,500 of service pay but must report the next $400, plus the $100 in dividends, since the total income over $1,500 was $500.

Here is tax-exempt government pay—which doesn't have to be reported—to servicemen, veterans and their families:

Federal mustering out pay; state bonuses to veterans; all benefits under the GI bill of rights, such as for education and subsistence; terminal pay; government contributions to family allowances and to dependents; disability pay; disability retirement pay for service-connected disability; allowances for uniforms, subsistance, traveling, quarters; pensions to veterans or their families for war services.

Advises Further Check

Check further—if you must file a return—on the various items a serviceman can deduct or need not report.

Here's a point for a serviceman's wife to remember:

If her husband, because his service pay is all exempt, is not filing a return but she is, because she has civilian income of $500 or more, she can claim him as an exemption.

Here's another point:

Suppose you, a parent, support a daughter who's husband is in service and who sends her some of his service pay.

Can you, in making your return, claim her as a dependent? Yes, as long as she did not have $500 or more civilian income of her own.

Remember Points Listed

Here are points for veterans and servicemen who have to file a return:

If you've been regularly stationed in the United States and are here March 15—the date for civilian filing—you must file.

If you've been overseas, or on sea duty, you can file a return 5½ months after the month of your return. But you can get the full payment delayed this way:

By applying in writing to the collector to whom the tax is due. Usually the law permits payment, without interest, in 12 quarterly installments over a three - year period. Application must be made within six months of discharge.

A question like this comes up:

I'm a veteran. I was an enlisted man. I was discharged in June, 1946. Do I have to file a return?

You file no return on the service pay for those first six months of 1946—or any government benefits since—but if between June, 1946 and Dec. 31, 1946 you had as much as $500 civilian income, you must file a return.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

ENFOREMENT DEMANDED

Editor of The Star — Can you, or some of the readers of The Star answer a question for me?

We have laws against stealing chickens, or taking jewelry from stores; in fact, we have laws against any kind of stealing of another's property. If a man steals chickens, or jewelry, or anything else, and if he's caught, he is prosecuted. We have laws against parking too long in one place, or against parking in the wrong place. We have a law against running a red light. If any one transgresses any of these laws, he is apprehended and brought to justice.

The "amazing" thing is that no one believes that we ought to repeal these laws simply because some people violate them!

Take a similar case: This country has a law, passed by the majority of its citizens, against the sale and purchase of intoxicating beverages. Those not in favor of the law transgressed it. But, instead of enforcing the law and prosecuting the violators, we repealed the law! Why?

Now, we are hearing that it is difficult to enforce the anti-gambling laws. And, following the same stupid line of reasoning, the advice from high places in the state capitol is not that we double, and re-double our efforts to enforce the law, but that we make gambling legal! Why?

The reason the prohibition amendment was repealed was not only because people violated it. The people who passed the law were then willing to lie down on the job and say, "Ah, that's done!" —and do little or nothing to enforce it.

Are we to fall into that same silly trap now in regard to gambling? We must bide our time in the case of liquor, but in the case of gambling we can demand enforcement. Christians, churchmen — let's express ourselves privately, to our friends; and publicly, in talks and letters, etc., on this matter. We do not have to be pushed around by the forces of evil!

SENATORS CRITICIZED

Editor of The Star — Please may I have a few lines in your paper to say what I think about Taft and Bricker, the two money men from Ohio. They are bringing a quick depression all over the U. S. A.

The people went to the polls for a change. They sure got just what they voted for. Taft and Bricker were always for the rich man and they forget about the poor; they just don't expect them to get a good living. They expect to balance the budget and starve the people.

I wonder if Taft and Bricker forgot what they promised the people.

If the rent goes up 10 per cent what does congress expect the people to do, as rent is too high now.

I just wonder what the boys went across the waters to fight for. Was it for the rich men?

The depression is right around the corner, but we won't have Roosevelt to bring us out of it, the best man we ever had or will have for president of the United States.

TRUMAN MAKES MEXICAN TOUR

Sets Out for Look at Country Following Assurance of U.S. "Non-Intervention."

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, March 4 — President Truman set out like any other tourist today to take a look at Mexico after pledging to her citizens last night that the United States intends to stand by the Good Neighbor policy and the doctrine of non-intervention.

He had a full schedule for the day, ranging from the laying of a wreath at the foot of the Mexican monument to independence, through attendance at festival of native dances, to a luncheon and reception at the U. S. embassy in the afternoon and an evening reception at the Mexican foreign office.

Speaking in the National Palace last night, the President declared that to him non-intervention meant "that a strong nation does not have the right to impose its will, by reason of its strength, on a weaker nation."

Keystone of System

"The whole-hearted acceptance of this doctrine by all of us is the keystone of the inter-American system," he continued. "Without it we could not exist as a community of good neighbors. It is a binding commitment under the Good Neighbor policy. It is part of the basic international law recognized by all the American republics. My own country will be faithful to the letter and to the spirit of that law."

He warned, however, that the United States could not be indifferent "to what goes on beyond our borders." Lawlessness among nations, the President said, is no more to be tolerated than lawlessness among individuals.

President Miguel Aleman, Mexico's recently inaugurated chief executive, said in his speech of welcome that "no rivalry" holds the U. S. and Mexico apart and "no untoward complex thwarts us." He then added:

"If prejudices have been an obstacle (to inter-American harmony) let us make the education of our children and our youth a liberation from that inexcusable obstacle. And if distrust has been another hindrance, let us abolish the final causes of distrust."

Welcomes U. S. Investments

President Aleman welcomed United States investments with "a proper respect" for Mexican laws because "we have economies that can complement one another fruitfully."

Before attending the dinner at which he spoke, President Truman received a thunderingly cordial welcome from Mexico's highest dignitaries and her plainest citizens.

To the dinner guests, President Truman remarked:

"I want to say I never had such a welcome in my life."

He got more thunderous applause when he stepped out on a balcony of the National Palace with President Aleman at a colorful reception which followed the dinner.

Shouts of "Bravo" and "Viva Harry" could be heard from the thousands who stood in the street outside.

Both presidents shook hands with a host of diplomatic attaches and their wives at the dinner reception. Mr. Truman told President Aleman that he was having "a wonderful time."

O.S.U. DEAN TO HEAD EXPERIMENT STATION

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—Ohio State university's dean of the agriculture college will become director of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster next Jan. 1, the university announced today.

Leo L. Rummell of Cincinnati, who will become college of agriculture dean next Sept. 1, was chosen unanimously by the experiment station's board of control yesterday to succeed Director Edmund Secrest. Secrest, who retires from the directorship at the end of this year, will continue research on the station staff.

Rummell was chosen several weeks ago by university's trustees to replace Dean John F. Cunningham in the college of agriculture Aug. 31 when Cunningham reaches retirement age.

Combining the directorship and deanship would bring about closer coordination in agricultural research, teaching and training, the university announcement said.

BUDGET

Greece, it does not seem to me that we can safely cut the funds for the army and navy."

Gurney contended a $6,000,000,000 budget cut would take $2,000,000,000 or more from the $11,200,000,000 Mr. Truman requested for the armed services.

Martin's statement embodied the answer of house Republican leaders to yesterday's 64 to 20 senate vote to hold the promised budget slash to $4,500,000,000 and to stipulate that $2,600,000,000 or more of the saving be applied to the nation's $262,000,000,000 debt.

That action brought into critical focus the wide disagreement between house and senate leaders on fiscal problems.

Martin and other house leaders declined to discuss compromise prospects, but Chairman Taft (Ohio), of the senate Republican policy committee told newsmen he expects the two chambers to agree finally on a promise to pare the budget by between $5,000,000,000 and $5,250,000,000.

DRIFTING SNOW CLOSES UNION COUNTY SCHOOLS

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, March 4—Many of the schools in Union county were closed today as the result of snow drifting over the highways in the county and making travel by buses too dangerous to attempt. State Highway spokesmen said that the department was working 24 hours a day to clear the roads, but that drifting snow made the highways "passable but dangerous".

FARM BUREAU ASKS FORCED ARBITRATION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—The American Farm Bureau federation today asked congress to enact legislation requiring compulsory arbitration of labor-management disputes which affect public health and welfare.

Edward A. O'Neal, the federation's president, presented the organization's stand in a statement prepared for the senate labor committee.

"Farmers believe that for the good of our entire nation the economic welfare between industry and labor at the expense of the public must be stopped," he said.

Prior to O'Neal's appearance before the committee, Senator Morse (R-Ore) told a reporter he thought revision of the Wagner act—rather than new laws—is the best way to achieve labor-management peace. He intends to introduce on Friday a bill calling for extensive changes in the act.

O'Neal suggested compulsory arbitration of labor disputes as only a "final step," after negotiation and mediation attempts have failed.

Under compulsory arbitration, the disputants would have no alternative, when hopelessly deadlocked, but to submit their quarrel to an impartial third party whose decision would be binding.

There are no bills requiring compulsory arbitration pending in the senate, but the proposal has been made in the house.

Fitzhugh was sentenced to life for the slaying Dec. 11, 1924 of John W. Keller, a night watchman in the International Chemical Co. plant at Lockland, during a robbery.

An accomplice, Robert Little, was put to death in the electric chair.

Under a new law enacted by the last legislature deserving prisoners serving life terms for first-degree murder became eligible for commutation to second-degree after serving two years. The commutation can be made by the governor on recommendation of the state pardon and parole commission.

The commission also granted paroles to 38 other prisoners in Ohio penitentiary.

major powers over disposition of Trieste, Byrnes said the final decision to make the contested area a free territory will "present many serious problems."

But it was a choice of that "or having no agreement at all," he told the committee. Russia refused to leave Trieste as a part of Italy, and the United States, Great Britain and France were equally determined that this large Italian population should not go to Yugoslavia, he explained."

Reconciled to Compromise

"I am reconciled to the compromise for another reason — my fears as to what would happen had our proposal been agreed to and Trieste given to Italy."

He speculated that rioting would have broken out after withdrawal of American and British forces, "Yugoslavia would declare it necessary to quell the rioting on its border and troops would be sent into Trieste.

"A disarmed Italy could not stop them. There probably would be an appeal to the security council. We can only speculate as to the result."

Byrnes said Yugoslavia "will realize there is a difference between encroaching upon the territory of a defeated enemy state that has been disarmed and encroaching upon the free territory of Trieste whose integrity and independence is specifically guaranteed by the security council of the United Nations."

Some Clauses Harsh

The four defeated nations may regard some of the treaty clauses as harsh, the former secretary said, but they will have the right to apply for United Nations membership, and if they are admitted "it is possible that revision of some of the more onerous clauses might be achieved."

Whatever faults the treaties may have, Byrnes said, "I believe the agreements reached are as good as we can hope to obtain at this time or for some time to come.

"I believe that it is much better for us and for the countries concerned, if we ratify these agreements, than if we have no agreements.

MILK PRODUCERS ASK SUGAR LAW CHANGE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—The National Cooperative Milk Producers federation asked the senate today to include in any future sugar rationing law a requirement that enough sweetening be allocated "to prevent the waste or spoilage of food commodities."

Charles W. Holman, federation secretary, said his group is primarily interested in guaranteeing enough sugar to makers of sweetened condensed milk so that they can process large quantities of skim milk into their product. Otherwise, he declared, much skim milk will have to be thrown away.

"We are now facing a season of flush milk production," Holman said in a statement prepared for a senate banking subcommittee which is considering bills to extend sugar controls after the March 31 expiration date.

"It is apparent that the methods of utilizing skimmed milk other than through the manufacture of sweetened condensed milk will not be adequate to absorb the whole supply."

High school students "struck" last Thursday in protest against the alleged face-slapping of a student by Principal Allen Mizer. The principal admitted he slapped the pupil's face in retaliation for the latter's "insolent remarks" during an investigation of beanshooting in a classroom.

Some 200 high school students were joined later by nearly 500 other pupils in the system, but after the wholesale faculty resignation, a spokesman for the startled students indicated most of them were willing to return to classes to await "negotiation" of their demands.

"I don't know just what we are going to do," said board chairman Chandler Thompson, "as it is practically impossible to hire a complete new staff of teachers. However, we are planning to ask county school officials for assistance."

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 4—Common pleas court will hear a motion Friday for a new trial for Don Frohner, 16-year-old high school boy facing a death penalty for the slaying of William C. Spieth, 52, Ashtabula salesman, Judge David G. Jenkins reported today.

Judges Jenkins, Erskine Maiden Jr., and Harold D. Doyle did not recommend mercy for Frohner, who pleaded guilty to first degree murder in the slaying of Spieth in his automobile Jan. 13. CLEVELAND CLUB KEEPS ITS PERMIT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., March 4 — A Cleveland private club today had the distinction of being the only organization to retain its permit since the state board of liquor control began hearings last week on issuance of private club liquor licenses in the closing days of the administration of Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

Chief Prospector Charles G. Schnur moved for dismissal of the charges against the Service Club, Inc., after the state's case collapsed yesterday with the appearance of a witness who proved to have been subpoenaed in error.

The Service Club case became a comedy of errors when one Lorenzo Brown, subpoenaed as a club official, testified he had never heard of the club or any of its members. It developed that the subpoena was intended for another Lorenzo Brown.

Schnur admitted the state's failure to prove its case and said the hearing would not have occurred if officials of the club had made themselves available to investigators.

Three permits were revoked yesterday, bringing the six-day total to 21 revocation, one dismissal of charges and two decisions pending.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 4—The house finance committee today recommended passage of legislation appropriating $3,839,286 for improvements — mainly in heating plants—at state welfare department institutions and state universities.

The proposed allocation is largely supplemental to appropriations of two years ago and will permit completion of a number of projects provided for at that time.

Grants recommended for the welfare department totaled $3,301,700 and included $653,000 for the Mt. Vernon state hospital to complete and equip a 550-bed hospital building and build a new laundry.

Other welfare institutions included:

The proposed bill includes these allocation to state schools and homes:

Ohio State university $188,590; Bowling Green $27,666; Miami $80,000; Wilberforce $145,130; Ohio university $23,000; Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Home at Sandusky $36,000; Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans home at Xenia $26,900

AID TO GREECE CALLED VITAL

Marshall Says Matter Is of "Primary Importance" to United States.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—Secretary of State Marshall said today that aid to Greece is "a matter of primary importance to the United States."

In his first formal statement on pleas of the Athens government and Britain for assistance to Greece, Marshall said the matter has received the "urgent attention" of President Truman and has been discussed with congressional leaders.

The secretary promised that a full public statement will be made soon when a study by the state department and other executive agencies is completed.

"The problems involved are so far reaching and of such transcendent importance that any announcement relating to them could properly come only from the President himself," Marshall said.

He added that the final decisions on what further steps the United States may take to bolster Greece's stability will rest with Mr. Truman and congress.

Shortly before Marshall's statement was issued, Greece was reported to have directed an "urgent appeal" to the United States for financial help.

Britain as well as the United States, Marshall said, "has likewise been bending every effort to help Greece."

Marshall's statement has been forecast since last Thursday's ten secret White House conference on Greece. This meeting was called to consider London's notification that it would be forced by Britain's own financial difficulties to pull out of its post war efforts to bolster Greece's anti-Communist regime as a western bulwark in the Mediterranean.

Marshall said:

"The Greek government has renewed its request for help.

"In the light of the world situation, this a matter of primary importance to the United States."

NEWARK GETS NEW HOSPITAL CHANCE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 4 — The House of representatives tonight gave the city of Newark another chance to obtain a bond by which it may expand its Newark City hospital, city owned and operated [illegible]. If 65 per cent of the voters voted.

The legislative body considered the vote of last Thursday by which it defeated, 37 for to 70 against, a bill by Rep. Henry V. Deming (R-Licking) that would have given the city authority to issue an expansion program in connection with the hospital. Rep. Walter L. Tarr (R-Hamilton) who raised a constitutional question against the bill when it came up for passage last Wednesday, which defeated the measure, asked for its reconsideration. His request was granted without opposition.

Deming then made the motion to recommit the bill to the judiciary committee which will make a special study of its constitutionality and attempt to work out a measure that will square with the constitution.

Deming said he believed the fact that the city owns the land on which the hospital is located, could have considerable bearing on any decision the judiciary committee may reach. He says there were many court decisions upholding his contention that the measure is constitutionally sound. The health committee previously had recommended the bill for passage.

FUNDS ASKED FOR 7 OHIO AIRPORTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 4—The civil aeronautics administration yesterday asked congress for funds for construction and improvement of seven large airports serving Ohio cities.

The airports were among 307 listed by Secretary of Commerce Harriman for the second year's installment of the national airport plan. The work, to be done during the fiscal year starting July 1, would cost an estimated $124,250,251, with the federal government putting up $58,921,687, and local sponsors the remainder.

Projects Harriman asked congress to approve included:

Cleveland Municipal airport, class 5, $1,700,000 (federal allotment $700,000).

Youngstown airport, to be enlarged from class 3 to class 4, $349,500 (federal allotment $169,000).

Port Columbus, to be enlarged from class 4 to class 5, $460,000 (federal allotment $180,000).

Mansfield Municipal airport, class 4, $100,000 (federal allotment $50,000).

Springfield Municipal airport, class 4, $200,000 (federal allotment $100,000).

Zanesville Municipal airport, class 4, $160,000 (federal allotment $80,000).

Greater Cincinnati airport at Covington, Ky., to be enlarged from class 4 to class 5, $253,250 (federal allotment $126,625).

A class four airport usually has paved runways 4,500 feet in length or longer, while higher classifications have longer runways and more equipment.

CAA officials said the 307 airports for which improvements were recommended were selected from 500 applications and represent those airports regarded as in greatest immediate need from a "broad national standpoint." The list still is subject to congressional revision.

Rubber Wage Talks To Begin Wednesday

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., March 4 — Representatives of the CIO-United Rubber Workers and the "Big Four" companies of the industry will return to the conference table here Wednesday to reopen negotiation on the union's demand for a 26 cents hourly wage increase.

Industry representatives late yesterday notified the union's executive board of its decision. Companies involved are the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., B. F. Goodrich Co., Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., all of Akron, and the U. S. Rubber Co. of Detroit and New York.

An agreement which granted the rubber workers an 18½ cents hourly wage boost expired Sunday and after negotiations on a new contract collapsed at Cincinnati several weeks ago, the union locals voted overwhelmingly for a strike, if necessary, to back up wage demands.

Rubber workers in the Akron area presently average $1.34 an hour. Workers are on a six-hour day and a six-day work week.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 4—Rudy Vallee, network star for nearly two decades, bids adieu to his NBC audience at 8 tonight. The sponsor is replacing him next week with a Milton Berle show.

Except for a wartime absence in the Coast Guard, Vallee has been on NBC since the late 20's. No announcement has come as to his radio future, the only word being that he planned to go into a Chicago night club.

* * *

Extra scheduling for tonight—speakers at Overseas Press club annual dinner; ABC 9:30 UN representatives Warren R. Austin of U. S. and Robert R. Young; CBS 10:30 Hector McNeil, minister of state for Great Britain, and Sen. Chan Gurney of Washington state.

Also for tomorrow—NBC 6:15 p. m. annual H. P. Davis memorial announcers awards. Because of his pioneering at KDKA, Pittsburgh, Davis was known as the "father of broadcasting."

Apparently the problem of Richard's door has no solution. At least, so thinks WOR, New York key of MBS. To that end it has decided to restrict use of the novelty tune "Open the Door Richard," on all of its musical programs "as a service to listeners." Reason assigned: "A good tune has become annoying because of overplaying."

* * *

Tuning tonight: NBC—8 Rudy Vallee's finale; 9 Amos and Andy; 9:30 Fibber and Molly; 10:30 Red Skelton show.

CBS—7:30 American Melody; 8:30 Mel Blanc; 9 Vox Pop; 10 One World Flight, Egypt and India.

"What Should Be Our Program for Germany at the Moscow Conference?", the most important matter to be decided upon since the end of World War II, will be the subject for discussion when "America's Town Meeting of the Air" convenes Thursday night, at 8:30 over ABC, just four days before the important conference is scheduled to start. The panel of experts in the discussion will be Dorothy Thompson, author, syndicated columnist, and foreign correspondent; Senator Harry P. Cain, Republican of Washington and member of the senate banking and currency committee; Wallace R. Deuel, foreign correspondent and former special assistant to Ambassador Robert Murphy in Germany; and Edgar Ansel Mowrer, author, syndicated columnist, and foreign correspondent.

SELECTED STOCKS MAKE COMEBACK

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 4—Selected stocks negotiated a feeble comeback in today's market under leadership of motors, steels and rails although the majority failed to follow through.

Gains of fractions to a point or so were reduced in most cases and numerous losers persisted near the fourth hour.

The buying flurry was credited principally to the idea three declining weeks entitled the list to a technical revival. Good dividends and earnings still were more or less ignored.

Better performers included Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Great Northern Railway, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, U. S. Rubber, Montogmery Ward, Union Carbide and Air Reduction.

Tough Delaware Contingent Enters Golden Gloves Joust

Competition with a capital "C" for fighters already signed in the Golden Gloves matches at the armory next Monday, Wednesday and Friday loomed today with the entry of 13 boys from Delaware from heavyweights to bantams.

Last year's bantamweight champion, Lawrence Strahm of Carey, also tossed his hat in the ring This year he weighs in at 125 pounds.

Champ, Runners-Up

In the Delaware contingent there is a champion and several runners-up.

Pat Patterson, last year's heavyweight king, is back at 185 pounds and so is the man he beat for the title, Ward Watkins, 195.

The boy Strahm defeated for the bantamweight crown, Brice Craig, is back and weighs 126 pounds, just the right size to tangle again with Strahm.

Bud Craig, who gave a good account of himself as a welterweight last year, now weighs in at 141 pounds

Donald Byles Back

Donald Byles, who won a couple of nice fights last year in the flyweight division, is back again this year about the same weight, 113.

Other boys who fought last year entering are James Wood, 160 pounds and Dwight Trimble, 127.

Marion Man Seeks To Organize Local Racing Pigeon Club

If Marion skies soon buzz with the whirr of racing pigeons' wings, Raymond Baer of 523 Avondale avenue will have achieved his wish.

The local pigeon fancier would like to introduce pigeon racing—one of the oldest sports—into Marion's athletic program. He is contacting other interested Marionites and is planning a Racing Pigeon club organizational meeting soon.

He owns 40 pairs of the birds. One of his pigeons recently won a 500-mile race. Pigeons race from distances of 200 to 1,500 miles, Baer said. Season lasts five months from May to September.

Good racers can scorch the ozone at 65 to 70 miles per hour, Baer reports. He has followed the hobby all his life and races only those birds which he has raised himself. He starts their training for race meets at the age of two months and gradually steps up the distance they are taken from home.

At the end of each race the pigeons enter their home aviary where the rubber bands on their feet are removed and stamped on a time clock. The bird with the earliest time is declared the winner.

Most noted pigeon of the breed is Cher Ami—a war hero. It is credited with saving the "Lost Battalion" of World War I fame despite shrapnel and machinegun wounds suffered while in flight.

Any one interested is asked to contact Baer, phone 3010.

BASEBALL TRADE WINDS BLOW AGAIN

Giants - Cubs, Indians - Washington Talk Swap.

By The Associated Press

Trade winds were blowing again today and this time it looked like the real McCoy.

The swap talk involves a player deal between the Chicago Cubs and New York Giants.

Cub Scout Walter (Dutch) Ruether was at the Giants training camp in Phoenix, Ariz., yesterday.

While he refused to say, it was believed he came to scout shortstop Billy Rigney whom the Giants had offered to the Cubs in exchange for outfielder Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey.

Another deal believed about to come off is one between Washington and Cleveland. It has been reported that the Nats are about to send pitcher Roger Wolff to the Indians in exchange for outfielder George Case. Bill Veeck, Tribe boss, was in Orlando, Fla., Senator base, to talk with Washington owner Clark Griffith and was said to have telephoned a tentative acceptance. Wolff was a 20-game winner for the Nats in 1945 but had a poor season last year. Case was traded away from Washington only last year, but suffered from sinus and his batting fell away off with the Tribe.

Cap Wins Ohio Net Loop Title

By The Associated Press

Capital university's Lutherans sewed up the Ohio Conference basketball championship Monday night with a smashing 87-55 victory over Kenyon. But the big surprise in the state was Ohio university's upset 62-54 victory at Athens over Butler university of Indianapolis

Capital already had clinched the mythical honors in the state. The Ohio U. Bulldogs played their best game of the season to hand Butler its first defeat in six games of Mid-American Conference competition and to endanger the Hoosiers' chances to win the title. It was Ohio U.'s fifth win in the loop against three defeats and assured it of third place.

Cincinnati, with a five-two record, could win the Mid-American race by defeating Butler at Cincinnati Tuesday night.

Ohio State university closed its basketball season by losing a hard-fought 66-62 game to Michigan. The Buckeyes, who won the Big Nine championship last year, wound up with five wins and seven losses.

The Wolverines, closing the season with a six-six record, assured themselves of fifth place in the Western Conference.

The Buckeyes rallied to tie the game at 62 all with only 16 seconds left to play, but Michigan sank two field goals in quick succession to win.

Bowling Green cagers staged their season finale with a powerful attack that bowled over Findlay college 80-26. It was the 28th victory of the season for the Falcons against seven defeats. Bowling Green amassed 2,147 points against opponents' 1,646 this season.

The Falcons lose only one player by graduation this year and are expected to be the terror of Ohio basketball courts again next season. The only senior, guard Howard Martin of Fredonia, Kans., received a gift and was elected honorary captain before the game last night at Bowling Green.

10 YEARS AGO

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Glenn Cunningham, most famous of all mile runners, picked March, 1937, as the month for many of his most magnificent performances.

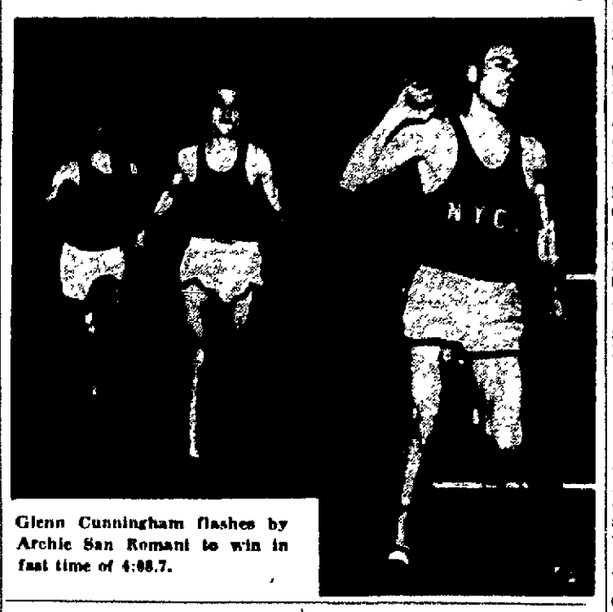
The scar-legged runner, who overcame tremendous handicaps to pace the nation's mile fields for seven years, trotted the best mile of 1937 on March 17, at New York, when he flashed around the Madison Square Garden oval in 4:08.7, beating his persistent shadow, Archie San Romani, a fellow Kansan, with a characteric last-lap sprint. Romani was clocked in 4:08.9. Time for the first quarter was 61 seconds, the second and third laps were clocked in 64 seconds each, and the fourth was run in the blistering time of 59.7.

Cunningnam won five other miles that month.

March was notable for top performances by another all-time sports great, Angelo (Hank) Lusetti, Stanford's basketball star, who led the Indians to their second consecutive Pacific Coast Conference crown and posted a new college scoring mark doing it.

During March, the National Basketball Rules committee decided to follow the lead of the Southern Division of the Pacific conference and abolish the center jump.

Cecelia Colledge, of England, won the figure skating championships at London, succeeding Sonja Henie as ice queen. . . . Lou Gehrig inked a movie contract, but assured his baseball fans that he would not give up the diamond sport for a flicker career. . . . Howie Morenz, all-time Montreal hockey great, died at 33, following a broken leg and a nervous breakdown. . . . Bob Feller, 18, made his first exhibition start of the year, and fanned six New York Giants in three innings.



Glenn Cunningham flashes by Archie San Romani to win in fast time of 4:08.7.

20 MINUTES TO TIP BIG NINE CHAMPION

Last Half of Purdue-Wisconsin Game is Clincher.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 4—Big Nine basketball teams have played a total of more than 70 hours in games this season trying to determine a conference champion only to fall 20 minutes short of the goal.

At no time in the history of basketball has such an important conference championship as the Big Nine been decided by playing only a half game. However, that is the case now, and it will be the longest 20 minutes of the season.

The Wisconsin-Purdue game—halted at halftime Feb. 24 when the Purdue fieldhouse bleachers collapsed killing three students—will be resumed at the Evanston township high school gymnasium Saturday night. The game will start at the point it was interrupted, with Purdue taking the floor for the second half with a 34-33 edge.

Wisconsin must win to capture the Big Nine title outright with nine victories and three defeats.

Indiana came in for its chance of sharing the crown by knocking off the Boilermakers 54-38 last night.

Michigan staked out fifth place last night by downing defending champion Ohio State 66-62 in the final game of the season for both teams. The Wolverines' Mac Suprenowicz, dropping in one of the two deciding baskets in the last 16 seconds piled up 25 points The Wolverines finished with six wins and six losses as against the Buckeyes' 5-7 record.

St. Mary One of Few Quintets In This District Still in Action

By GEORGE ROEST

As far east as Ashland, as far west as Luma, as far north a Findlay, and as far south as Ostrander St. Mary is one of the fe schools in this district still active in tournament basketball.

Ostrander still is in tournament listings, and is likely to be f a little longer provided St. Mary doesn't K.O. them in the Westerville class B tournament semi-finals Wednesday night at 8:30.

The opinion in this city, however, is that the Irish will do just that when the schools meet. The Irish have been playing an unconquerable brand of basketball in this tournament, having breezed to a 62 to 47 victory over Pickaway county's third team, Monroe, and then springing what dopesters called the biggest upset of the night Saturday, dumping Newark St. Francis 31 to 29.

Ostrander carries the better record into this tilt and for that reason some sources are inclined to favor them. They have dropped contests this season only to Sunbury and Galena, finishing in first place in the Delaware county league tied with these outfits. Their loss to Sunbury was in the county tournament finals.

In rating these teams it must be considered that St. Mary has been playing, on the whole, stronger competition, a fact admitted by the Delaware Gazette.

Another semi-final match of interest to fans in this district is the Marysville-Sunbury match tonight Sunbury has twice bested the Monarchs Despite this both teams finished their season tied for first place in the Mid-State league. There was talk of a play-off game as no arrangement is made by the league for a co-championship. This game could serve a dual purpose if league officials would allow its results to decide the Mid-State champ as well as who would advance to the finals

With three Mid-State league teams going to the semi-finals that league has come to be regarded as one of the toughest in its class. Marysville and Sunbury are in the tournament upper bracket.

St. Mary is in the lower bracket of the tourney listings and the winner of their game tomorrow will play the winner of the Columbus Rosary-Granville match

The other semi-final match at Westerville in the upper bracket is Worthington against Plain City and will be played starting at 7:30 tonight.

Zanesville Has Several Veterans Back

The Zanesville Dodgers of the Ohio State league, who have never won the loop's pennant, but have emerged at the top of the heap in the last two play-offs at the end of the season, will have several veterans on the squad, according to a list of players recently released.

Among the experienced pastimers who will accompany Manager Clay Bryant to one of the Brooklyn Dodgers minor loop camps at Pensacola, Fla., for pre-season training are Hardy Holt, Joe DeStafano, Joe Belcastro, Bill Edwards, Dick Bishop, Ken Lein, Bernie Shocklee and John Allen.

Leading Pitcher

Last year Holt was one of the Buckeye league's best righthanded pitchers. DeStafano was selected by the sportswriters of the circuit as the outstanding third baseman last year. Belcastro was one of the leading hitters during the season of 1945. Shocklee was rated high among the catchers in the same season. Lein was a capable second sacker on the 1945 team until the Army took him away. Bill Edwards, former Marion performer, was an excellent lefthander in 1944.

With this seasoned and proven talent the popular, but hard driving Bryant whose major league career was cut short because of arm trouble when with the Cubs in 1939, should be able to form another formidable team at Zanesville. To add to this experienced array of class D players will be a large group of newcomers found by Branch Rickey's Brooklyn scouts who have gone through the bushes with a fine tooth comb in search of promising material.

Rickey who is the father of the farm system in baseball has developed the picking of young pastimers into a science. His list of scouts includes the best in judges of baseball on the hoof.

Big Troupe of Teachers

In addition to this Rickey has chosen a troupe of teachers for the youngsters that is excelled by no other big league club. These instructors spend many hours drilling the chosen talent in the fundamentals of baseball. This is in direct opposition to the theory held by some managers that baseball players are born not made. Rickey acts on the theory that they may be born, but that they must be trained to execute the plays in a manner learned over the years by baseball greats.

After an extensive training period and a year or two of daily experience the best are picked from the lot to move up to the Dodgers.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

OLGA'S face shadowed again, and I knew that she was thinking of Noel's jealous "royal rages" in which his father's ego took a certain twisted pride because they were supposed to be an inheritance, even though by "bar sinister," from the royal family of Transvania.

"No, Noel must not find Mary here," she said, "although I do not believe we need fear much from him. Ever since that explosion of his over Georges, two years ago, he has been rigidly disciplining himself, I think I do not believe he has let his temper get away from him since. And of course, his worry for the past months over Mary has given him no time for indulgence in rages. He spends all his time either at work or writing to her.

"He has not seen her since she left, I understand," I said.

Physicians Insistent

"No, the physicans were insistent that no member of her family come to see her," she replied. "They said they did not want her emotionally disturbed."

"I know." I nodded assent "Dicky was as rebellious as Noel over the mandate, but as Mary's improvement was constant, they had to bow to the edict. But we must get her down to their own apartment before he comes home. She can tell him she wanted to surprise him ,and that she came up here to pass the time until it should be time for him to come home. Perhaps you can tell Philip that she meant to come up and see you people, but that you advised against it because you saw how nervous she was. How do you like me in the role of Sapphira?" I digressed suddenly.

"You are a very clever equivocator," she said, and her voice and eyes told me that I had solved a problem for her.

"I am afraid that Dicky would call me a 'cock-eyed liar,'" I said ruefully, and this time her smile was something more than a wrath.

Puritan Conscience

"I think Holy Writ would call you 'an ever present help in time of trouble,'" she quipped.

"But," she went on, "I must not delay longer in telling you of the information the sanitarium physician gave Philip. Your tea will be up before we know it."

"And must be served as soon as it comes," I supplemented. "I would have made it up here, but I simply didn't have time. But, tell me what the physician said."

"He told Philip that up to a month ago, Mary's condition had been steadily improving. Color, weight, lungs, heart, mental poise, all were approaching her usual almost perfect health. They were thinking about sending her home a month or two before the time they had set for her to leave the sanitarium.

A Queer Change

"Then," she went on, "he said that almost over night, the queerest change came over her. She had been reading 'As You Like It,' from the library, and she sent it back with the demand for any modern plays they could give her. Something in her manner made the nurse watch her as she read, and she noticed that something in the plays appeared to excite Mary. She would read for a little, then look off into space with her eyes closed, then begin to read again, and fling the book aside as if something in it displeased her greatly. Twice she flung the book across the room as if in a fit of anger. Then they took all reading away from her—that was last week—and ever since she has been a rebellious and a troublesome patient—she had been most tractable before. Worst of all, she began to lose some of the ground she had gained. Her weight went down."

Probably Pleased Her

"That probably pleased her," I said. "She still is heavier than she was when she left."

"And her color began to fade," she said, while I made the mental comment that Mary's cleverness at make-up had deceived me on that point.

"But worst of all," she went on, "she became moody, wouldn't talk to her nurses, slept badly, and spent much of her waking time staring into space. They actually began to wonder, the physician said, if her mind could be affected."

A knock at the door which I knew, put an effective period to her sentence.

"There's room service with our tea," I said, starting for the door.
